JOBBERS INDORSE MUNICIPAL EXHIBIT

Commissioner Macfarland Awaits Similar Action by Other Trade Bodies.

NEXT STEP UP TO CONGRESS

Make Early Move Toward Securing Suitable Appropriation.

the Jobbers and Shippers' Association of the proposition to have a suitable municipal exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition, District Commissioner Macfarland announced today that he only awaits similar action on the part of the Board of Trade and Business Men's Association to ask his colleagues to approve the plan to recommend to Congress an appropriation for the purpose. When this unanimous indorsement is given by the three trade organizations Commissioner Macfarland states he will move to secure Congressional action early in December in order to provide ample time for the arrangement of the proposed exhibit.

The jobbers and shippers' indorse-ment was received in the form of a res-olution passed by that body at its last meeting, stating that the entire organization "most heartily commends to the Commissioners and Congress the proposed municipal exhibit." The association also proffers its assistance in any way toward the accomplishment of the ex-

Assistant Secretary H. W. Clum, through whom the resolution was sent to the Commissioners, states that the space for the exhibit has been reserved on an option until January, and sug-gests that early consideration of the matter is of great importance to the success of the project.

Her numbers were Bemberg's "Nymphs and Shepherds" and Harris' "A Madrigal," Shepherds' and Marris' "A Madrigal," in both of which numbers she caught and held her audience enraptured. Her pure sorrano tones were especially bell-like last evening, and she sang with warmth and finish. She was enthus-iastically recalled and gave MacDowell's "Thy Beaming Eyes," with finish, delicacy, and much feeling. Miss Hardin-Hickey is an artist and has a bright future.

Mrs. Goodhue was also in excellent voice and showed her very remarkable range and power. Her song was the great aria from Donizetti's "La Favorita," "O, Mio Fernando," and in interpretation and rendition displayed her dramatic gifts and musical temperament. In response to enthusiastic demand for mere she sang the splendid song of Mrs. Beach's "The Year's at the Spring" with telling effect. This song showed her voice to special advantage, and was one of the greatest successes of the evening.

The musical season of the Washington Saengerbund was opened last evening with an exceptionally good program and a very large and appreciative audlence. The society was in its best form and sang delightfully two choruses, Weinzlerl's "Deutsches Lied" and Kunhold's "Daheim." The conductor, Henry Xapder, has done splendid work in the few rehearsals of this month. The chorus is particularly strong on the tenor this year, showing a number of good voices with telling qualities. The soloists presented during the evening were chosen from among the most talented musicians of local circles, Mile. Hardin-Hickey, soprano; Mrs. Annie Lillibridge Goodhue, mezzo soprano; S. M. Fabian, planist; Ernest Lent captured a double encore for his exquisite work on the 'cello. Mr. Lent is in splendid form this year and played with a beautiful tone and fine technique the Andante from Golterman's Sonata. Being obliged 'to return, he gave a skillful performance of the Popper "Tarantelle," and, not being allowed to stop at that, he played an exquisite "Cradle Song" of Schubert's, arranged by him as a 'cello number and which was most successful. Mr. Xander played the accompaniments with consummate skill and grace.

Mr. Jaeger, the eminent local flutist gave two interesting numbers. "Die Schoensten Augen Kummer," and for encore "Shepherd's Morning Song," by Fahrbach, which was especially good. Mr. Jaeger played upon a new flute last.

encore "Shepherd's Morning Song," by Fahrbach, which was especially good. Mr. Jager played upon a new flute last evening, recently sent from Leipsig, the mouthpiece being on a sort of mound, with a slight dent in the part, which is conductive to a larger and much clearer tone.

Hold Negro Lad For Grand Jury; Charge Serious

Accused of Assaulting a Pretty Seven-Year-Old Girl in Brightwood.

Held for the action of the grand jury under $5,000 bond, by Justice Mullowny in the Police Court, Wallace Lee, a negro, eighteen years old, charged with having assaulted the seven-year-old daughter of George F. Brown, of Brightwood avenue, near Villa Flora, was this morning committed to jail in default of bail.

Testimony of the child and her father was the ground on which the negro was locked up. Lee, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, is said to have made a partial confession before the hearing.

The child, a little blue-eyed, goldenhaired girl, was called to the stand by Judge Mullowny. She told her story amid a shower of tears and was corroborated by her father and Dr. H. B. Coblentz, who attended her.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown are frantic with grief and the former was only prevented from killing the negro by the persuasion of his friends.

Prosecution will be pushed vigorously and Mr. Brown said last night that he would try to have Lee punished to the full extent of the law.

Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Young McGee was thirteen years old and was in his first year at Georgetown. A little more than a week ago he became ill with a chill, and several days later typhoid fever developed. Heart complications set in, and when an operation was found necessary, the surgeons could not give him an anesthetic, and the little fellow watched their work. Although he apparently suffered no shock the little fellow watched their work. Although he apparently suffered no shock and was believed to have successfully recovered from the effects of the operation, spinal meningitis followed, and at 4 o'clock yesterday morning he died. Young McGee was regarded as an unusually bright boy by the professors at Georgetown. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McGee, of 636 C street northeast, from where the funeral will be held.

lay, Ohio, was recently in Washington. He cailed on the President, told him "You are the one great issue in this campaign," and the President responded, "Delighted to hear it."

To the newspaper men Cole declared that his visit was to push through few pensions. The newspaper me few pensions. The newspaper men smiled. They knew that a Congressman's secretary looks after the pension matters. Cole went directly home, where he met Representative Longworth and his wife, the President's daughter. They were giral a great ovation in Cole's home town. And then it was whispered both in Findlay and in Washington that Cole was about to follow the example of Longworth and bring a bride to Congress at the beginning of the session.

One of his errands to Washington was to look up rooms in some hotel for two for the coming winter. It was his inquiry for an apartment built for two that caused investigation as to his matrimonial intentions and it is understood that his marriage cards may soon be sent forth to his fellow-members of
